

SIMPSON

Established 1871

Post rock, composed of strong, enduring greenhorn limestone, defines the ARCHITECTURE, as well as the essence, of Simpson and her people.

Old Timers (PEOPLE of mostly German and Bohemian descent) labored long and hard to extract their fence post and homes from the ancient seabed of Central Kansas.

Sensational, in a subtle, elegant kind of way, is the best way to describe the prevailing GEOGRAPHY of our part of the state. Rolling, occasionally rocky, hills soothe the eye with prairie colors of gold, green, and sky blue.

This natural beauty IS the ART we revel in and respect. Just step to the edge of town and look out into the countryside! No human interpretation of art can rival the handiwork of God!

Post Rock Fence

We're glad you came to visit! Would you like to see some excellent examples of post rock fences? Drive south out of town, cross the river, and turn right at the next dirt road intersection. Proceed west past the cemetery and go up Billing's Hill. Keep going about another half a mile and you'll also see a lovely example of an old home built entirely of limestone.

Rough living and hard work calls for a hearty CUISINE for the folks that populate Simpson and the surrounding area. Country breakfasts of steak and eggs and fresh baked bread reward farmers and ranchers for getting up before daybreak to do chores. There's nothing like the wonderful full feeling of a country fried steak!

Our farmers and ranchers provide the commercial base for our town. Processing wheat into flour is what established COMMERCE in Simpson (known as Brittsville and located in 1871 on the Solomon River).

Changes in transportation methods for that same wheat and flour caused the whole town to pick up and move back in 1880. HISTORY tells us that a man named Alfred Simpson deeded a portion of his land to the city so it could rebuild next to the newly established railroad tracks north of the river.

Knowing only a simple, hardworking way of life, led the people of Simpson to appreciate strong, simple CUSTOMS. Our families and our community support God, country, and education. We work hard and steady...we play easy and slow.
